What is the Café Training Project?

Situated in the vibrant Broomhouse Community Café, the Café Training Project was established in 1997 to provide real-life work experience and training to people in Edinburgh who struggle to find work. Trainees are valued in their role and are supported by a team of professionals who focus on increasing their skills, confidence and emotional resilience.

How long are the placements for?

Placements usually last around 6 months and trainees come for one day per week. This can vary depending on the abilities and aspirations of the trainee.

What sort of tasks would I be involved in?

Trainees participate in daily tasks such as preparing food, cleaning, setting tables, stock taking, cash handling and customer service. Trainees are also encouraged to embark on and achieve accredited training.

Will I work with other people?

Trainees develop their confidence through working with staff, other trainees, volunteers, and customers.

What do other trainees have to say?

"It is strange thinking back to when I first started because I was so scared... but now people say that they can't believe how much my confidence had gone up! I went on to get a paid job through Community Job Scotland as a Café Assistant."

- Anna

"I wasn't very independent and have learning disabilities and social anxiety disorder but the Café Training Project really helped me. I learned about cooking and baking and made friends with other trainees."

- Sarah Jane
